Nuclear agreement ratified

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Monday that the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to start talks "in the nearest future" on curbing the costly missile-antimissile race between the two atomic superpowers.

Johnson reported on the long-awaited U.S.-Soviet talks during a historic signing at the White House of the Nonproliferation Treaty, a pact aimed at outlawing the spread of nuclear weapons.

A total of 57 nations signed the treaty at the nationally televised ceremony in the East Room of the presidential mansion. In parallel ceremonies at Moscow 35 nations signed while at London, the capital of the third treaty-sponsoring power, 23 joined.

Duplications held the opening day total to a figure of 60-plus but Johnson predicted that in the months ahead virtually all of the world's nations would join.

The treaty comes into force upon ratification by 40 non-nuclear states plus the three atomic power sponsors.

Johnson plans to send the pact to the Senate promptly in hopes of winning U.S. ratification by the end of July.

Among the nonsigners, West Germany cited what a government spokesman called "invasive Soviet political pressure" against Bonn. Chief government spokesman Guenter Dieltz held out no hope for early West German signature, but he recalled that Bonn voluntarily renounced in 1954 the production and acquisition of nuclear and other mass-destruction devices.

The treaty, under which the nuclear powers pledge not to supply atomic weapons to non-nuclear states and the non-nuclear countries pledge not to acquire them, was billed by Johnson and by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson as the most important disarmament accord since the dawn of the nuclear age.

The previous landmark was the 1963 nuclear test-ban treaty in which more than 100 countries joined to bar nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

The missile reduction proposal is more of a two-power affair since only the United States and the Soviet Union now own big stockpiles of long-range atomic rockets.

Have-not nations that promise to stay that way under the non-proliferation treaty have pressed the Big Two to do some disarming too.

To those countries that fear a nuclear threat from non-treaty states, Johnson repeated the earlier U.S. pledge of readiness to move quickly in defense of treaty states threatened by nuclear aggression. The Soviet Union and Britain joined this country in such a pledge June 17.

Senate leaders disagreed on whether funds for starting the Sentinel antiballistic missile system should now be withheld in view of the approaching U.S.-Soviet talks.

Thermometer soars over 100 mark

Heat wave may end today

STROUDSBURG — "In one second you make a 100 degree change," said the supervisor of the frozen food warehouse department at Pocono Produce Co. Inc., Stroudsburg.

"The best thing is to stay in there on a day like this," Fred Tallada of Cresco said eyeing the huge wooden door that separated the frozen food warehouse and its attractive 0 to 5 degree below range of temperature from out in the parking lot where Monday's heat drove the mercury up over a hundred (in the sun).

"The eyes water at first, when you go in there you gotta get used to that 0 to 5 below temperature," said Robert Werkheiser, of East Stroudsburg, manager of the frozen food department.

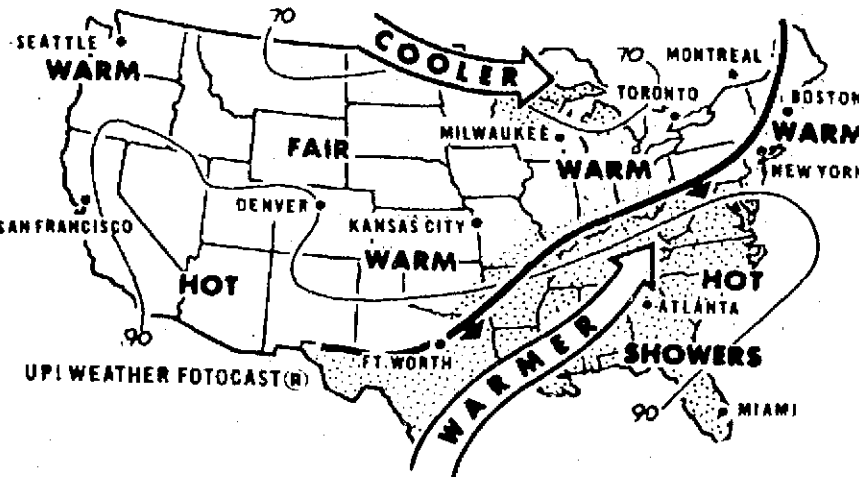

Werkheiser wore a parka and smiled easily when asked if he enjoyed working in those cool confines. "We just got two railroad car shipments of frozen food in here over the weekend," he said.

At the Stroudsburg Municipal kiddie's pool, Mrs. Lorraine Carson of Stroudsburg wiggled her toes in the pool as she poured water from her infant daughter Jackie's bottle over her lobster red back.

Samuel Everitt, playground and pool director, said that more than 900 persons paid their way in the Stroudsburg pool Monday, setting a one-day record.

Everitt also said that the pool and playground was crowded over the weekend as were the facilities in East Stroudsburg as people sought relief from the heat which started Sunday.

The culprit responsible for Monday's average temperatures-114 in the sun and 92 in the shade-was the Bermuda high, a high pressure system centered near Bermuda with a southwesterly flow of warm moist air moving, sluggishly up the East Coast, according to the Avoca Weather Bureau.

"Customers don't even ask the price of a fan," said Bill Seese, manager of the Frigidaire Department in Wyckoff's.

"You got a fan," was the basic question put to Seese Monday.

"$24.95," Seese replied.

"I'll take it," more than 10 customers said during Monday's heatwave.

In the rear of Wyckoff's a construction worker looked down from his perch on a concrete pier of the Sear's Shopping Center and whistled at a pretty girl entering Wyckoff's.

Back at the Stroudsburg Municipal Pool an elderly couple got up from their chairs which they had placed in the shade of a tree.

"I ain't used to this heat," the man told his woman companion as he folded up the chairs and they walked across the parking lot to their car.

State police probe stabbing of mother, 25, young son

MOUNT POCONO — A 25-year-old mother and her young son are in the General Hospital of Monroe County suffering from stab wounds believed to have been inflicted by the mother.

Mary Sears, Sterling Rd., Coolbaugh Twp., and her son, who was identified as Abbie, are being treated for multiple cuts, puncture wounds and a blow from a blunt object.

State Police from Mount Pocono and investigators from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in Hazleton were at the family home early this morning trying to piece together what happened.

The young boy had numerous cuts on his wrists and feet, a puncture wound on the face, chest and abdomen and a lacerated scalp.

The cuts on the wrist and feet are believed to have been inflicted with a knife, the puncture wound by an ice pick and the lacerations done by a hammer.

Police believe that the boy's wounds were inflicted by his mother, in what was an apparent attempted murder and suicide.

Mrs. Sears' body was lacerated and it is believed that the woman took poison internally.

The mother and son were taken to a local physician who administered aid and then had the pair brought to the hospital.

Russia silent on immediate return of U.S. plane, GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A troop-carrying U.S. airliner bound for Vietnam was forced to land on a Soviet island late Sunday. Moscow gave no assurances Monday of an early release for the aircraft and its 231 passengers.

The Seaboard-World Airlines charter was taking 214 soldiers and sailors to Vietnam when it was intercepted by Soviet MIG fighter planes and forced to land on Interup Island in the Pacific Kuri chain.

The Pentagon said the DCB plane apparently strayed off course en route from Seattle, Wash., to Yokota, Japan, and flew into Soviet air space. It had a scheduled refueling stop at Yokota.

Washington at once pressed for release of the plane and the men, acting through the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, and with the Soviet ambassador here, Anatoly Dobrynin.

But at a mid-afternoon news briefing a State Department spokesman said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told Thompson only that the case is under investigation and gave no assurances the aircraft would be freed soon.

Robert J. McCloskey added "We continue to be in touch with the Soviet government and hope that the plane and its crew will be returned."

Another plane forced to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A pilot-riding passenger hijacked a Northwest Airlines plane carrying 92 persons Monday night and forced the pilot to land in Cuba.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said the plane was flight 714 from Minneapolis, Minn., to Miami via Chicago. The FAA said 85 passengers and a crew of seven were aboard.

FAA regional administrator Paul Boatman said a passenger from the first class section of the Boeing 727 jet pulled a gun and ordered the pilot to get non-stop clearance to Miami.

"Then he came back a few moments later and said, 'Make that Havana,'" Boatman said.

The landing in Havana came six hours after a hijacked Southeast Airlines and its 14 passengers were permitted to stop at the four-engine jet had left McCord Air Force base at Seattle Sunday with 174 Army men, 31 Navy and nine Air Force personnel, plus 17 crew members.

Cuba returns U. S. plane

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen kidnapped airline passengers returned to U.S. soil from Havana Monday, leaving behind a gun-wielding hijacker and the plane's pilot who was jailed for defecting from Cuba in 1960.

Passengers identified the hijacker as a well-dressed, polite Negro who was listed on the flight manifest as E.H. Carter.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents declined immediately to identify the hijacker officially.

China won't take part in N-talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China has spurned an invitation from Secretary-General U Thant to attend a U.N.-sponsored nuclear conference in Geneva, a U.N. spokesman disclosed Monday.

The turnaround came as the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain signed the treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons—a treaty which was denounced by Peking and from which France has remained aloof. The nuclear powers are the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Red China.

Thant cabled an invitation last week to Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai in Peking to attend the conference of non-nuclear countries scheduled Aug. 29-Sept. 28 in Geneva, Switzerland.

400 tennis fans collapse

Europe sizzles during heat wave

LONDON (AP) — London's famous Tower Bridge stuck, Sahara sand fell over Britain and 400 tennis fans collapsed at Wimbledon as a sizzling heat wave hit Europe Monday.

After a week of rain and nearly arctic winds, the temperature soared to 90 degrees in London. The quick switch was too much for some of the 28,000 spectators at Wimbledon's first open tennis tournament.

One casualty was an Englishman who lives in the central African Sudan. "If this heat continues, I'm going back there," he said in the cool of the first aid tent.

In Pentypridd, Wales, fist-size hailstones smashed windows and car windshields. A freak downpour caused severe flooding at the Welsh village of Aberfan, where 116 children and 28 adults were buried alive when torrential rain caused a coal-waste heap to slide in 1966.

The heat jammed the apparatus used to raise and lower the Tower Bridge on the River Thames. The bridge remained raised and caused huge traffic snarl-ups on each side.

Earlier, the sands of the Sahara descended on London and southern England leaving millions of cars and houses coated in reddish dust.

The London Weather Office said the dust had been drawn up by a small tornado.

Elections shock French students

PARIS (AP) — The youth in a University of Texas sweatshirt said: "Even the Communists must have voted for the Gauls."

Standing outside the new medical school near St. German des Pres, he was handing out crudely copied leaflets.

The leaflets called for a meeting of students later Monday at a branch of the Sorbonne in suburban Nanterre. That is where Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the most widely known among promoters of the May disorders that so obviously annoyed French voters, was a student.

"There'll be unpleasant things happening tonight," predicted the student in the Texas sweatshirt, a small, wiry youth of about 20.

He is not really from Texas, he acknowledged readily. "But my mother is," he added.

Students tardy in seeking aid

HARRISBURG (AP) — About one-third of the 38,000 Pennsylvania college students receiving state help for their education failed to apply for renewal of their scholarships.

But the figure may be lowered when a flood of late mail arriving Monday is sorted.

Midnight Sunday was the deadline for renewal applications. Kenneth R. Reher, executive director of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, said the Monday mail brought six bags and 25 trays of scholarship mail. It must be processed this week before there is an accurate count on the renewal applications.

Reher said it was likely that a good portion of the mail received Monday contained renewal applications. If they fail to meet the deadline, the students can always apply for special low interest loans.

"We always get a flurry at the last minute," he added. The agency awarded 39,000 scholarships valued at $27.2 million last year. About 13,000 grant recipients were not heard from before the Sunday cutoff.

Reher anticipated that in addition to renewals, another 25,000 to 27,000 grants would be awarded to June graduates in all categories this year.

A $53.3 million appropriation for the assistance agency was approved by the legislature last week and sent to Gov. Shafer.

This included $46.5 million for scholarships and $4 million as guarantees for student loans, which are administered under state auspices by participating banks.

The scholarship program, and the education assistance agency's criteria for awards, have been assailed by various legislators and in the editorial columns of some Pennsylvania newspapers.

Critics claim that the maximum annual gross income that a student's family must prove if he is to qualify for aid is too high — $17,000. The agency revised the figure down from a maximum $25,000 at a meeting last month.

But, Reher pointed out, even the $25,000 figure was within bounds, given the possibility that the student applying is only one of several children in his family destined for a college education.

The agency has also scaled down the maximum award per student from $1,200 annually to $800. The purpose of the reduction, the agency said, was to enlarge the number of scholarships available.

Reher said that both the reduced maximum income and the decrease in the maximum stipend may account for the drop in renewal applications.

He discounted the significance of the income ceiling, though, by pointing out that in most cases "eligibility really starts to drop off at $12,000." This would indicate that the children of families with higher incomes seek aid from other sources.

Out of the 38,000 scholarship grants awarded last year, Reher said only 100 cases were being reviewed by the agency on suspicion of fraud.

Allentown youth refuses to be inducted into Army

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A 24-year-old Allentown man refused induction into the Army Monday, saying in a written statement, "... I will not serve in the military as long as the war in Vietnam continues."

The man, David R. Hawk, is a student on a leave of absence from Union Theological Seminary, New York City. While Hawk presented his statement at the Armed Forces Examination and Entrance Station in Wilkes-Barre, about 28 friends and supporters staged an orderly two-hour protest outside his draft board in Allentown.

An Army spokesman said the case will be turned over to the federal district attorney.

Board seeks $4.9 million hike in car insurance

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Insurance Rating Board asked the state Insurance Department Monday to approve a $4.9 million increase in Pennsylvania automobile rates, effective Sept. 4.

At the same time, the IRB notified Insurance Commissioner David O. Maxwell that it has directed its legal counsel to withdraw a court appeal contesting his rejection last April of a requested $11 million rate increase.

The IRB, which represents companies writing 33 per cent of liability and 49 per cent of physical damage coverage in the state, generally sets the trend for automobile rates in the Commonwealth.

"The Insurance Rating Board makes this filing under protest as an emergency rate adjustment for the purpose of obtaining some immediate rate relief for its member and subscriber companies in Pennsylvania," Daniel J. McNamara, its assistant general manager, wrote Maxwell.

The application was interpreted as being the industry's compromise on the $11 million proposal Maxwell rejected as being excessive. The industry appealed that action to Commonwealth Court last May.

Maxwell said the rating board agreed to make the filing available for public inspection beginning July 9 in the department's Harrisburg, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh offices.

"At this time, the department does not contemplate scheduling a public hearing with respect to this filing since the relevant factors ... were developed during extensive public hearings (on the original filing) Oct. 16, 17 and 18 and Nov. 10, 1967," Maxwell said.

However, he added this was subject to change if additional pertinent information should be brought to the department's attention.

Here is the department's analysis between the latest filing and the $11 million proposal submitted a year ago:

— $10,000-$20,000 bodily injury liability: The new proposal calls for an 11 per cent increase in rates for $3,040,000 as opposed to a 24 per cent hike for $5,719,700.

— $5,000 property damage: Another 11 per cent increase for $1,954,400 as compared with a 22.4 per cent increase worth $3,323,700.

— Medical payments: No change in the proposed 25 per cent increase for an additional $907,800.

— All non-collision physical damage, including comprehensive: The new filing proposes an 10.4 per cent reduction worth $2,766,100 in contrast to a 12.6 per cent reduction valued at $2,033,300 recommended last year.

— $50 deductible collision: The latest plan calls for a 3.3 per cent increase for an additional $482,200 while the old plan asked for an 8.5 per cent increase at $1,191,000.

— $100 deductible: The IRB asked for an 8 per cent increase of $2,255,000, down 0.2 per cent from the 1967 filing which requested another $2,063,100.

The department said even though the latest $100 deductible rate was lower percentage-wise than the old filing, it would produce more revenue because the IRB's membership had increased in the past 11 months.

SOME TRUTHS ABOUT SUN TAN PRODUCTS

Medical specialists agree too much sun is not good for the skin. Some people are so affected that serious bodily harm can result. True blonds and red-heads often are so sensitive to the sun that it is a constant problem.

There are two types of sun protectives. One has a screening ingredient which filters out some of the harmful ultra-violet rays. The other does not. If you are the sensitive to the sun type you should only use the screening ingredient type. Do not expose yourself too long until you have acquired a tan. We will show you both types and will be glad to help you make a choice.

New male swim style, bathing caps

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Those boys who like their hair long, like a girl, will have to wear bathing caps, like a girl, if they want to swim in the pools at Philadelphia recreation centers.

And if they don't like a bathing cap they'll have to get a haircut — or swim elsewhere.

George Karalinas, a Recreation Department supervisor in charge of municipal pools, said Monday a city health regulation requires all girls to wear caps — no matter what the length of their hair, and some of them, admittedly, wear it shorter than many boys.

The reason: long hair has a tendency to shed, more frequently, and this clogs a pool's filtration system.

The banquet was served by Lady Hamlin Rebekah Lodge of Sterling to 105 guests attending.

The earliest class represented was 1905, with one member, Miss Edith Simons, of Newfoundland, attending. Representing the youngest class were Melissa Burdick, Carol Butler, Gary Voeste and Robert Robacker.

Missionary will talk in Poconos

NEWFOUNDLAND — A man whose influence had no small share in establishing religious freedom in the Constitution of the land of India, and yet a man whose appeal is so worldwide that he is known as "Brother Stanley," will fly to the Poconos next Sunday to open the first of a series of nine Sunday evening services of Vacationland Ministries, Inc., at the Newfoundland Arts Center.

He is Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary extraordinary, who has helped hundreds of thousands, from village outcasts in India to moulders of public opinion in America, Japan, Europe and India.

Dr. Jones will come to Newfoundland from Puerto Rico, and en route to Nashville, Tenn. His message will be the first in the 1968 series, "The World Church in Action."

Half century

For more than half a century, Dr. Jones, a man with a twinkle in his eye and a smile on his lips, has been proclaiming the Gospel of Christ. He has taken that Gospel and applied it to men's personal, national and social problems on every continent and among all cultures, although he is most closely related with India.

He has initiated and helped to support institutions and movements on five continents that have helped many achieve better lives religiously, socially and medically. Author of innumerable books, one of which, "The Christ of the Indian Road," sold over a million copies, he has greatly influenced the course of missionary thinking through his writing, which has been read around jungle fires, studied by armies and governments, quoted in parliaments, banned and burned by the Communists.

Dramatic works The 624-seat arena-theatre at the Newfoundland Arts Center will also be the setting during the Sunday evening presentations for dramatic theatrical work, dialogue prayer, religious interpretive dance, special music and unusual lighting effects.

Working together on the dramatic presentations this year will be the Rev. William W. Reid, Jr., of Wilkes-Barre, and Fr. Bert Akers, S.J., of the University of Scranton.

The Rev. David W. Flude, of South Sterling, United Methodist Charge chairman of Vacationland Ministries, and the Rev. Stuart Thody, Providence United Methodist Church, Scranton, secretary, together with Larry Schwab, Scranton youth appointed minister to vacationers in the Poconos by Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, have arranged for this second year of outreach for vacationers and visitors to the Poconos, after the 1967 series of five programs was acclaimed as one of the most successful ventures of the Conference year.

Come as you are It is a "come as you are" service, with worship in the setting and atmosphere of an Art Theatre. It is very different from "morning worship" as normally experienced by churchgoers, and was planned in the belief that God may be worshipped anywhere.

In issuing an invitation to attend the services without charge or reservations, the two local ministers point out that "the church is in action in the world, and the church's message is as dynamic and relevant today as it ever was in its history."

And that is the story that will be told from the stage of the Newfoundland Arts Center on July 7 by Dr. E. Stanley Jones and the others who participate in the program.

Local youth on dean's list

HUNTINGDON — David P. Learn of Bartonville, was named to the Dean's second honors list at Juniata College, for the spring term. Dr. Donald M. Rockwell, dean of academic affairs announced.

Learn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Learn, will be a sophomore in chemistry next term and was also on the dean's honors list for the fall term.

Elderly man cycles from sunny state to Poconos

NEWFOUNDLAND — "I only have about forty more years to do this, so I want to cover all the territory I can," said Barret Caldwell, of Deland, Florida, as he came pedalling up to the porch of The Lancaster in South Sterling on a hot Sunday afternoon, the last day of June.

Here was a man who had retired from what he called "a high-tension" job. He wanted to break away from the desk life he had been living, one that required a great deal of nervous energy and responsibility.

He had bicycled some 600 miles to the Everglades one time, but had never "really traveled" on his two-wheeler for any great distances otherwise.

So he left Florida on June 7, heading for the convention of the League of American Wheelmen at Arkville, N.Y., about 105 miles from the Poconos. The session starts July 4, and he expects to make it with time to spare.

He starts out early in the morning, sticks to the back roads, and tries to find a suitable motel or resort before very late in the afternoon, although on occasion he has pedaled for a full day. He does carry camping equipment "just in case."

Finding that the mountains have slowed him down considerably, he nevertheless feels that it's just as well, because it is beautiful country, well worth seeing.

"And you do get to see more on a bike!" he notes.

Admitting to "60-plus" years, Mr. Caldwell has had only one mishap all the way from Florida: a tire blowout. But it happened near a bicycle shop!

And after the convention? With Florida not noted for cool July weather, he thinks he may go home by way of Ohio and Missouri, where he has two daughters.

"I'm in no hurry," he says. "I've got forty years to do whatever I please."

M. Smithfield accepts Detrick subdivision

MARSHALLS CREEK — The Middle Smithfield Twp. supervisors have accepted subdivision plans from John Detrick, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, for a development in the township which will be called Woodland Trails.

The supervisors tabled action on several other plot plans because the plans had not been approved by the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Detrick is a member of the county planning commission. Middle Smithfield is in the primary impact area of the proposed Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, and for this reason, the supervisors will study each request for approval of plot plans, Sterling School board, secretary-treasurer, said.

The supervisors appointed H. A. Berkeimer Associates, Bangor, to collect a one per cent earned income tax, which the township will share with the East Stroudsburg Area School District on an 80 to 20 basis.

The firm was also engaged to collect a $10 occupational privilege tax which is also shared with the school district.

Three cars in accident

BUSHKILL — State Police from Milford Friday at 11:10 a.m. investigated a two-car accident which involved a third car that was parked unattended. Total damage is estimated at $1,000.

The drivers were Elizabeth H. Smith of Yonkers, N.Y., and Charles Coyle of Cleona, Pa.

According to police, the Smith car was traveling south on Rt. 209 and the Coyle north on Rt. 209. Coyle attempted to turn into a gas station and the two cars collided.

After the crash the Coyle car ran into the parked car of Joseph Cannavo of Bronx, N.Y.

"To counterfeit is death"

'Spending money' exhibited

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Record Correspondent

NEWFOUNDLAND — A great deal of "local color" is present in the unusual display of "spending money" now on exhibition at the Newfoundland Area Public Library through the courtesy of Richard Hooper, of South Sterling.

One in particular, a 10 dollar bill, bears the names H.R. Megargel and C.F. Ehrhardt, names well-remembered by Pocono Mountain residents. The ten-spot is "an inferior specimen" of Charter 12911 of the local First National Bank of Newfoundland, signed by Megargel and Ehrhardt, with obligation similar to that on Federal Reserve notes except that the name of the issuing bank and location of said bank replaces that of the Federal Reserve Bank. The "like deposit" clause is also omitted.

1929 specimens This national currency was issued in denominations of five, 10, 20, 50, and 100 dollar denominations. The specimen in the display case at the library is dated 1929.

Issue of this currency under the National Bank Act allowed National Banks to place the money in circulation under their own name prior to the Federal Reserve Act. The notes carried also an unusual brown seal.

The 10 dollar bill bearing the name of the First National Bank of Newfoundland is an excellent company in the unusual display at the library.

Also shown is a colonial note of Pennsylvania bearing the legend, "To Counterfeit Is Death," a 1772 issue which bore a real leaf (from a tree) on the reverse side to foil counterfeiters. It was believed that it was impossible to duplicate anything found in Nature, a belief which the counterfeiters apparently had not heard about, for they immediately fell to and turned out similar passable notes of their own.

Continental currency

On exhibition are pieces of Continental Currency, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island Colonial Notes; a check from the Cooper Shop Refreshment Saloon dated 1865; a Towanda Bank Note of 1841; an Allentown Bank Note of 1862; a Bank Note from Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Easton and another from the McKean County Bank; one from the Chambersburg and Bedford Turnpike Road Company of

One of the stranger ones is a Girard Banking House Note, signed by Stephen Girard himself, on November 3, 1820. Mr. Girard's name has been much in the news of late with the successful contesting of his will concerning his famed school for "white male orphans" in Philadelphia.

A Bank Note of 1840 from the Bank of the United States, founded by Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia, bears an engraving of the great man's picture is also displayed. A letter is also included from Danforth, Bald and Company, dated 1852, with the letter head bearing the Franklin vignette.

Other bank money

In the display at the Merchants, Planters Bank of the State of Georgia; Hagerstown Md., The North Western Bank of Warren (1862); the Manual Labor Bank; the Bank of Washington (1814), showing George Washington on horseback; the Easton and Wilkes-Barre Turnpike Company; and the Lumbermen's Bank.

Wayne County script, dated December 5, 1859; Fractional Currency dated 1862; a Fractional Note from the Borough of Williamsport, all are among the exhibited notes.

The currency display is the first in a continuing series planned by the Newfoundland Area Public Library. There will be exhibitions of hobbies, crafts, handwork and collections, probably changing each month. The display of "spending money" which covers the past 196 years and includes much local history, may be viewed during library hours on Tuesday and Thursday from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m.; and on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Mid-Atlantic in class by itself

If applause were stones, the Mid-Atlantic Music and Art Center at Onawa Lodge would be a lasting monument to the field of music and entertainment.

If the opening weekend of concerts at Mountainhome is an example, the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center may be one of the biggest and best things to ever hit the Pocono Mountains.

Concerts held Friday, Saturday and Sunday were greeted with a strong display of enthusiasm on the part of the audience, where resounding rounds of applause greeted each outstanding performance.

We are of the opinion that the enthusiasm shown by pupils and faculty members of the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center has never been surpassed. It is an act of devotion and complete love of music in all its facets.

The Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center in a few short days has won its way into the hearts of everyone who has attended its concerts. The music establishment has displayed that it is willing, able and ready to make a tremendous contribution to the Pocono Mountains.

The beauty of the entire thing is the fact that one doesn't have to be a lover of music, to thoroughly enjoy the concerts, which are given each week from Wednesday through Sunday. The concerts are so presented that individuals with only a very limited appreciation of music can still enjoy the concerts thoroughly.

There are 130 students at the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center as of this moment and this division of the newly arrived organization is only one of the facets that may turn the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center into one of the facets that may turn the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center into one of the finest organizations of its kind in the United States.

The manner in which Louis Vyner, director of the Pocono Music Festival Symphony Orchestra, and violin soloist Geoffrey Michaels thrilled the audience of an estimated 500 Saturday night can't be denied. They were truly brilliant, as was the orchestra.

But, despite its brilliance and promise, the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center needs financial help to see its way through the first couple years, after which it will become self-sustaining.

Right now funds are needed desperately to purchase the Onawa Lodge property, to make necessary repairs to the property and to in general get the entire program off the ground.

Everyone should do his share. We certainly don't want to lose an organization of this type. We may never have an opportunity to recoup the loss.

Attend a concert soon and we feel certain everyone who has listened to the music under the "big top" will want to help the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center in every way possible.

This is truly a fine organization.

Big help for police

The United States Supreme Court, in upholding the right of a policeman to stop and frisk suspicious-looking persons for weapons, has given police an assist in the fight against crime.

The ruling could result in a reduction in the number of robbers and rapists roaming the streets in search of prey.

The new decision replaces the old standard of "probable cause," which meant that a policeman could not arrest or search unless he had evidence — not mere suspicion — that a crime had been committed by the suspect.

The ruling is a move toward a fairer reconciliation of the rights of the individual with the rights of society than the nation has come to expect from the court.

Too often the court has appeared to view only the rights of the collection of individuals referred to as society.

The layman understandably has had difficulty in accepting the rationale behind court decisions that have hinged not on guilt or innocence or brutal treatment of defendants by police, but on nitpicking scrutiny of police action to determine if it conformed to certain fine legal principles.

The stop-and-frisk decision indicates the court is now more willing to come to grips with the realities of crime prevention.

For those who fear the extension of police power under any circumstances, the new ruling is inevitably another step toward a police state. But the "stop-and-frisk" right of the policeman is not an absolute one, as the court opinion pointed out.

Rather, the policeman may avail himself of it when a "reasonably prudent man in the circumstances would be warranted in the belief that his safety or that of others was in danger."

A policeman still lacks the power to stop and search arbitrarily; reasonableness will be controlling.

The Allen-Scott Report

Moon landing year away

Robert S. Allen

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Despite those massive budget cuts in funds for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, American space scientists are going ahead with a five-step plan to beat the Russians to the moon next year.

Step one in their plan will be the first manned Apollo flight tentatively set for September 20 — or approximately six weeks before the crucial 1968 presidential election.

Tagged "Apollo Seven," the flight will test the refurbished command section of the Apollo moonship. This new spacecraft will be flown in earth orbit for the first time by a crew of three astronauts—Don Eisele, the command pilot, Walter Schirra, and Walter Cunningham.

The trio are to spend at least 10 days in orbit getting the feel of the cabin and checking out Apollo's control and communication systems.

The new fireproof cabin, which North American Aviation has been working on for the past 15 months, has nonflammable materials installed, the new quick opening hatch, cabin emergency oxygen, and a portable fire extinguisher.

The safety devices are designed to avert another tragic fire like the one that took the lives of three astronauts in February 1967.

If all goes well Step Two will follow in November, according to the time schedule given the House Space Committee by Dr. George Mueller, associate director of the United States manned space flight program.

Second Manned Flight
This crucial test will involve the launching of the complete moon spacecraft, including the smaller "bug-like" vehicle designed for landing on the moon and taking off.

Although the "space taxi," as it is called, will be carried into space during Step Two, it will not be tested under its own power until later flights.

During the November flight, a second space crew, consisting of Astronauts James McDivitt, David Scott, and Russell Schweickart, will again limit their flight to the earth orbit. Their 10-day journey is designed to gather further information on the operation of the Apollo moonship.

The full dress rehearsal for the 500,000-mile trip to the moon and back will come in Step Three which is scheduled for early in 1969 if all goes as planned.

A third crew of astronauts — Frank Borman, Michael Collins, and William Anders — will take a second complete Apollo vehicle out to distances of 4,000 miles from earth.

The crew will then swing their spacecraft back toward earth to study the tricky maneuvers necessary for a safe return home on a lunar flight path.

If no serious problems develop in that flight, preparations for Step Four — the first manned-flight into moon orbit will get underway. Date for that historic flight is now tentatively set for June 1969 — or just a year from now.

Under present plans, there will be no attempt to land on the moon during this flight. Instead, the three-man crew will go into orbit around the moon and inspect its surface from an altitude of 80 miles — or possible even lower.

Big event
Once the round-the-moon journey has been successfully completed, a moon landing flight — or Step Five — will be authorized by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The flight plan will then be sent to the next president of the U. S. for his approval, since it will involve a number of risks. The three-man crew for this journey won't be picked until next year. Members of the three astronaut moon teams will get first choice for the assignment.

As in Step Four, the Apollo moon craft will be launched into orbit around the moon for the final journey. Then two of the astronauts will be detached from the orbiting moonship and will use the space taxi to descend to the lunar surface.

They will make a short exploration of the moon surface, then will take off and rejoin the third U. S. astronaut for the journey back to earth.

The 32,000 pound, two-stage space taxi is 10 feet in diameter and 20 feet tall, with four legs and metal landing pads. NASA scientists say its importance cannot be overestimated in carrying out the moon landing. Not only must this Apollo piggyback craft take two men down to the moon's surface; it must get them back to the command craft.

If this space taxi should fail, there would be no known way of rescuing the astronauts from the moon. Earlier, space officials considered further testing of the space taxi in lunar orbit, but this was ruled out after NASA's funds were drastically cut back this year.

Although no details of the Soviet moon program have been disclosed, U.S. intelligence sources say the Russians also appear to be shooting for a moon landing in 1969.

All recent Soviet space launchings, they point out, indicate that the Russians may try a round-the-moon flight this year — the forerunner to a landing on the moon in 1969.

Goldsmith joins staff with Allen

Don MacLean

Too many words

The Pocono Record has been informed by Publishers-Hall Syndicate that John A. Goldsmith, veteran Washington newsman, is joining Robert S. Allen on his column, "Inside Washington," after today, and each column will be signed by Allen and Goldsmith.

Goldsmith's by-line has appeared many times as he has been chief of the senate staff of United Press International.

Goldsmith, the personal choice of Allen, is a veteran of more than 20 years on the Washington news fronts, all of it with United Press International, formerly known as United Press.

While most of his reporting has been done from the Senate staff he has also covered the White House, the State Department and the Labor Department. He also covered the labor racket investigation led by the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy and which led to a prison term for David Beck, former head of the Teamsters Union.

Paul Scott has resigned from "Inside Washington" after a dispute with the Publishers-Hall Syndicate.

WASHINGTON — The State Department is attempting to cut down the number of priority telegrams sent to its headquarters here from overseas posts. Too many of our diplomats are confusing telegram classifications, thereby wasting money and causing communications personnel here to work overtime needlessly.

In a sharply-worded memo to all embassies, the State Department said it was happy to note that incoming telegrams classified as "Immediate" have been cut down from around 500 a month to about 300 a month. But, still, too many telegrams containing merely background information are being sent for "Immediate" attention, Tech-tel.

Also, State added, many employees overseas seem unable to distinguish between other classifications, such as "Flash" (which should be reserved for small wars, attacks on the embassy itself, etc.), "Immediate" (USIA library burnings, student demonstrations), "Urgent" (plagues, famines and natural disasters) and "Important" (the Ambassador is missing, and stuff like that).

The definitions in parentheses are merely my guesses as to what the various telegram classifications stand for. At the moment, there is no clear understanding of that and State Department experts are busily composing an instruction bulletin for all personnel.

But while we're waiting for that, I should like to bring forward my own suggestions as to how the State Department could save money on overseas-telegram charges.

The first thing for our diplomats overseas to realize is that although a particular situation may seem new and dangerous to them, it is only one of many similar incidents the department must deal with throughout the year.

Harris survey

Rockefeller losing strength with members of own party

By Louis Harris

Since he began his all-out campaign for the presidential nomination, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has gained ground among Democrats and independents, but has lost strength among the rank-and-file Republicans. The closer he comes to demonstrating that he might be the one Republican to win in November, the weaker he becomes in his own party.

In his quest for the GOP nomination, Rockefeller thus appears to be asking the Republican Party to ignore the wishes of its own members in favor of enhancing its chances to win the election.

Rockefeller's problem, therefore, is just the opposite of that of his chief rival, Richard Nixon, who is the clear choice by 2-1 for the nomination among Republicans, but at this point does not come close to putting together enough non-Republican support to add up to an electoral majority.

Clear signs

Here are some clear signs of the position in which Rockefeller finds himself.

Between May and June, the New York governor gained 10 points among independent voters when pitted against his two possible Democratic opponents, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy.

Against Humphrey, Rockefeller now is carrying the vote of younger people by 41 to 37 per cent. Nixon loses the under-35 vote to Humphrey by 42 to 34 per cent.

Rockefeller carries the affluent vote—people with income over $10,000 a year—against McCarthy by 42 to 40 per cent. Nixon loses this vote to McCarthy 46 to 40 per cent.

Among voters of the Jewish faith, a traditionally "liberal" group in large pivotal states, Rockefeller holds Humphrey down to a 49-33 per cent lead. Nixon loses these voters to Humphrey by a heavy 85-nine per cent.

All of these segments of the electorate could be pivotal to Republican chances of winning the election in November. On each, Rockefeller widely outdistances Nixon's showing today.

Yet the apparent price Rockefeller has paid for these gains is visible slippage in his standing among the rank and file of his own party.

Against Humphrey, Rockefeller now receives the support of only 59 per cent of those who think of themselves as Republicans. In May, his total was 61 per cent. His drop against McCarthy with GOP voters is even greater, from 64 per cent in May to 56 per cent now, down eight points.

In a direct pairing against Nixon among Republicans, Rockefeller has slipped from being behind 33 to 55 per cent in May to trailing by 30 to 61 per cent today.

Among the voters as a whole, there is agreement by 41 per cent that Rockefeller was wrong in not testing his strength in the primaries, with 28 per cent disagreeing. Among Republicans, feeling runs even higher—48 to 27 per cent—that he should have contested Nixon in the spring primary tests.

Four in 10 Democratic voters now believe that Rockefeller has a "better chance of winning the election in November than any other Republican." But only two in 10 Republicans feel the same way.

Nearly half (48 per cent) of the people who voted for Barry Goldwater in 1964 are not prepared to say they would vote for Rockefeller in 1968. If Rockefeller is the GOP nominee, one in 10 say they will vote for a Democrat; nearly three in 10 say they will cast their ballots for George Wallace; the remainder are still undecided.

Rockefeller is trying to become a successful candidate in 1968 by changing the base of his party's appeal. His entire thrust appears to be toward a much more independent-based campaign.

This tack might well place Rockefeller in a position by convention time in August where he could be running much better with the entire electorate than Richard Nixon, who appears to be in the doldrums at the moment for the November race. But sentiment of the party rank and file moves heavily toward Nixon.

Thus, Rockefeller might be winning the November election on paper, only to lose the Republican nomination in August because he was lacking in appeal to his own party members.

Big time for Toots

NEW YORK — People... Places.

The safe arrival of Miss Lori Jacobson, Toots Shor's first grandchild, may enable National Distillers to declare an unprecedented profit for 1968. Toots switched from his customary brandy to Old Grand-Dad to mark the occasion. It was another heavy blow for the French economy.

Toots' large coterie of well-known friends in the various arts and sciences lighted up his restaurant's switchboard for hours after news of the baby's birth spread. When he wasn't on the phone, Toots was fading everybody who dropped by to have a celebration drink. Everybody.

He also took voluminous notes on paper napkins throughout the grueling day. I ran into him the following day at the Recovery Room, a new joint in town.

"Never make notes on what you hear late at night or on what you think," Toots said over a five gallon tin of Alka Seltzer. He fished in his pockets and brought out a ball of twisted paper.

"Because," he went on, brow furrowed, "you've got to get drunk all over again to read them."

P.S. MOTHER (Kerry), Father (Jim) and Old Grand-Dad are all coming along nicely.

American golfers spend precisely ten times as much on golf balls each year as their forefathers spent buying Alaska from the Czar.

Advances in medicine

After intensive and exceedingly carefully controlled, experimental studies in animals and in patients, the National Institute of Health has, through its Division of Biologic Standards, given official sanction for the use of a special type of globulin to protect newborn babies from the RH disease.

Mothers, who during their pregnancy are known to be RH negative, are followed exceedingly carefully during every phase of their pregnancy, to prevent the blood condition that sometimes occurs. The first-born child rarely is affected by this complex interplay between the positive and negative blood factors in the mother, the father and the child. Even before this new, exciting news, RH babies have been saved by early transfusions and other safety devices. It is for this reason that all pregnant women must be closely observed throughout their pregnancy to insure the safety of the newborn.

The new immunoglobulin is referred to as an RH vaccine, although it is technically not a vaccine in the strict sense of the word.

Originally, this protective substance extracted from the blood, was developed by Dr. Vincent J. Freda and his colleagues at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York. More than one thousand RH negative women have been given the protective injection with remarkable statistical effectiveness to more than 93.5 per cent. A single injection of this new anti-RH globulin may be all that is necessary. There are some highly technical reasons why some women may not be choice candidates for the use of this great scientific discovery.

It is an interesting sidelight that the development of this globulin was furthered by volunteers at Sing Sing Prison who contributed their blood to the study to help find its maximum safety factors. The cooperation of prisoners in institutions all over the country has brought many benefits that are not as well publicized as the crimes for which they are committed. They deserve our thanks.

Intoxicated balance

The name, Dr. Dorothy Wolff, will probably have no special meaning to readers of medical columns, but to ear specialists the name and the person represents the greatest accomplishment in the study and understanding of hearing aid equilibrium that has been made in the past 50 years. There probably is no more knowledgeable person in the complexities of inner ear disease in any laboratory or hospital in the world. This sounds like an extravagant statement, but it is mild compared to her contributions to the deaf and to prevention of many of the causes of this severe handicap.

Now, Dr. Wolff has added a very important understanding of why chronic alcoholics walk with the disturbed gait and imbalance so characteristic of intoxication. In addition to the temporary brain changes, Dr. Wolff has found that chronic alcoholics may have injured themselves and caused small fractures within the semicircular canals which control balance. A leakage of fluid may be responsible for the unsteady gait, described interestingly as "alcoholic epilepsy."

It is suggested that the chronic alcoholic be tested for balance and hearing acuity in order to determine if the balance mechanism can be kept from progressing and if the hearing can be preserved.

MOUNTAINHOME — John Stewart Black, formerly a resident of Mountainhome and a graduate of Barrett Township High School, received his bachelor of science degree in Business Administration from Western Illinois University at recent commencement exercises.

Black is the son of John P. Black of Skytop and Mrs. Thelma Eckroth Black who is on the faculty of Western Illinois University.

Black is employed for the summer as a riding master for Camp Chicopee in Wayne County and anticipates affiliation with the Boy Scouts of America in the fall in a professional capacity.

Diocese hits $12 million

SCRANTON — The Diocese of Scranton's project: Expansion program received its largest single gift of the campaign recently when the Pennsylvania Gas and Water Company pledged $75,000. The gift was made to the Most Reverend J. Carroll McCormick, D.D., Bishop of Scranton by Rulison Evans, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer and Robert R. Evans, President of the utility.

With the receipt of this latest gift the campaign for the Diocese of Scranton passed the $12 million figure and reached to over 150 per cent of its originally designated $8 million goal.

Irony of ironing

Dear Ann Landers: I feel like a moron. I'm sure nobody has ever written to you about this problem because I am probably the only one in the country who is dumb enough to ask it: I am the world's loudest ironer.

My husband has been very nice about it. His shirts always look terrible and I am ashamed of myself. No matter how hard I try I can't do better. I've scoured so many collars I decided it would be better to have the iron too cold than too hot. So now his shirts look as if they have not been ironed at all.

Our daughters are growing up and I want their blouses and dresses to look fresh and crisp like the little girls they play with, but I just can't manage it.

I am getting an inferiority complex. It's awful to admit I'm too stupid to iron halfway decently when millions of women are able to do it. Can you help?

WRINKLED IN WHITTIER

Area players chose comedy; fall production in works

STROUDSBURG — The Phoenix Players, Stroudsburg's community theatre, will produce "Light Up The Sky," a comedy by Moss Hart early in the fall. Mrs. Joan Howell will be the director.

Members of the play reading committee for this production were David Mazer, chairman, Beatrice Kerner, Lewis Harrington, from the theatre group, and Eileen Wolfe and Harry Lee from the community-at-large.

More than 40 plays were considered before five comedies were recommended to the director.

Contract set for center

HARRISBURG — A $164,194 construction contract for a Tourist Information Center in Delaware Water Gap was unofficially awarded Friday to the Collins and Maxwell Inc., Easton, by the State Department of Highways.

The center, to be built near the Rt. Interstate 80 Interchange in the Gap is one of 41 construction projects totaling more than $47 million now under contract.

The center is the first of 14 such facilities which will be constructed at all Interstate entry points in Pennsylvania from the adjacent states.

ironer does not take brains. It takes know-how, practice and patience. Go to a friend or neighbor whose ironing you admire. Ask her to let you watch her wash and iron. See what she puts in the wash water. Several products on the market make ironing easier. Bring your own iron along on the second visit and iron alongside her. After the third or fourth session you should be well on your way.

In exchange for the lessons you can buy her an appropriate gift or bring over a standing rib roast, a casserole of escalloped potatoes and a cherry pie.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like your opinion of a newspaper ad that made me furious. Please tell me if you think I am a sourpuss and a killjoy.

The ad says, "Don't just GO STEADY — go PRE-ENGAGED. Buy this 14 kt. gold diamond pre-engagement ring for only $18.50."

We have three daughters, two in their teens. I am trying desperately to give my girls wholesome values. It's hard enough to keep teenagers in line these days, with sex screaming at us from the billboards, the movies becoming wildly suggestive and every other teenager driving a car of his own. And now we have ads urging kids to get pre-engaged! How hungry can a merchant get?

Please reply in the paper and I will watch with interest to see of the same paper that printed the ad will have the nerve to print my letter and your comments.

ENRAGED MOTHER

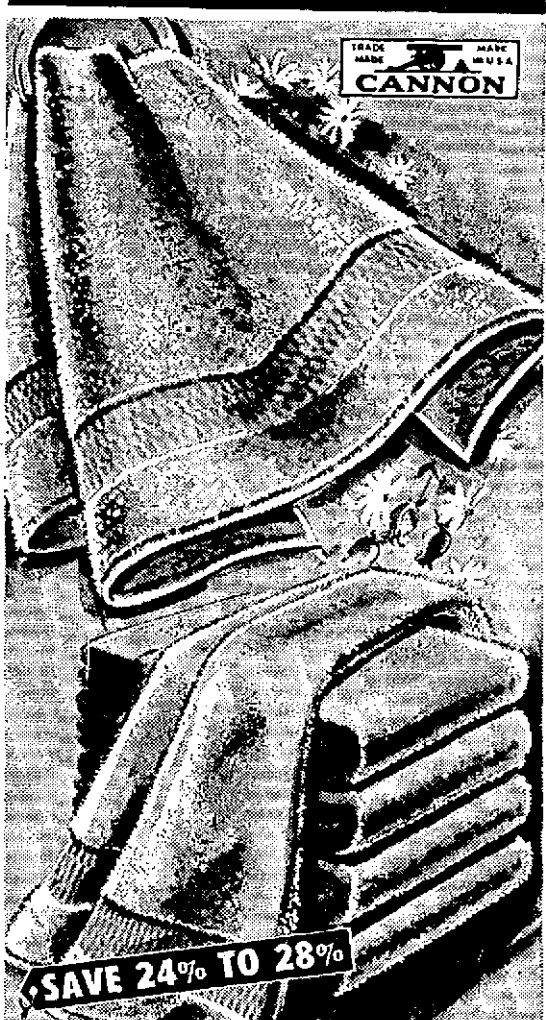

Dear Mother: The suggestion that teenagers should get pre-engaged (whatever that means), with a 14 kt. gold ring for $18.50 yet, is revolting. This crass attempt to drag a few bucks out of some dumb kids by suggesting that they "play house" as rock-bottom in my book.

Confidential to Frigthened, Ashamed and Can't Go On This Way: Your letter indicates that you do not know what homosexuality is. Every week I receive at least a dozen letters from women who display the same kind of ignorance. Have a talk with your family doctor. I hope he will give you some reading material along with a few basic facts on married love.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect," send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Television notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Honeymonsters" will be seen in two different formats on Jackie Gleason's CBS hour next season. There will be three new hour-long musical versions such as appeared often during the past two seasons. These were recorded in Florida last spring. There will be at least five 10-minute sketches involving Gleason as bus driver Ralph Kramden and Art Carney as sewer worker Ed Norton. These will be part of the content of as many variety hours, which Gleason will stress in 1968-69.

Opening lead—queen of clubs. This hand reminds me of a sign posted on the highway shortly before the Fourth of July holiday. It read: "To be safe on the 4th, don't buy a fifth of the 3rd."

South was in six spades and West led the queen of clubs, won by declarer with the ace. South continued with the king which East ruffed. East returned a trump which South won in his hand so that he could ruff the next club in dummy with the king without the danger of an overruff. However, declarer's belated caution was wasted. He was able to discard one club on the ace of hearts, but eventually went down one because he had still another club to lose. The deal illustrates the kind of care required when a contract appears to be certain but is not. The 5-1 club division is certainly not probable, but since it is a possibility, some provision should be made to guard against it.

Declarer's first obligation in a seemingly "laydown" hand is to say to himself: "What can possibly defeat me?" Had South bothered to ask himself this question he might have found the sure-fire safety play.

After winning the club lead, declarer can see that the slam is a certainty if the adverse clubs are divided 3-3 or 4-2. He can ruff a club with the king in either case, and thus guarantee twelve tricks.

However, South must also consider a possible 5-1 division. If that is the actual case, cashing the A-K of clubs in preparation for a ruff may lead to defeat. To cater to the 5-1 possibility, as well as the normal 3-3 and 4-2 breaks, declarer should invoke a safety play. He should lead a low club at trick two.

By conceding a club in the interests of safety, South smooths the path to twelve sure tricks. One of his remaining low clubs can be ruffed high in dummy; the other goes on the ace of hearts.

Local girl scores in London play

LONDON, ENGLAND — A favorable review in the prestigious London Times greeted the acting debut of Miss Carol Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ashley Anderson of Hill Bilet, Beacon Hill Road, East Stroudsburg R.D. 3.

Carol is a business executive with Great Britain's Black Sivalis & Bryson Ltd. and her acting career is purely extra curricular. As a member of the Chelsea and Westminster Evening Institute, she had the starring role in "The Diary of Ann Frank."

Both the play and Miss Anderson fared well in a review by Jane Monroe, critic of the London Times on May 24.

"Sentimentality should never be a substitute for true emotion in a play, and the Castle Lane Players avoided this trap well in their production of 'The Diary of Ann Frank' last week. All the actors... combined to create a claustrophobic tension in which each character was a recognizable individual."

"The major difficulty was the size of the stage which the actors found cramped."

"But this became of secondary importance when the story began to unravel—the remarkable account of eight people living in one attic for over two years and never leaving it during that time. Anne, a 13 year old girl, an imaginative child full of energy that could find little outlet among her older companions was acted by Carol Anderson with a natural liveliness which matured into a genuine desire to sympathize with and understand her fellow beings."

To cap this triumph, Miss Anderson spent several hours with the father of Anne Frank, when he came from London to Amsterdam to promote his daughter's message of love and co-existence through the Ann Frank Foundation.

From him she heard first hand of the years of hiding in Amsterdam, his life in the concentration camp and the news of the death of his family and friends.

"He is a delightful man of Daddy's age, still vigorous, though quite emotional about his experiences," she reported.

Miss Anderson has been offered the younger female role in Ibsen's "Ghost" which, on the assurance of a London grant, is to be presented in September.

Sociological impact desired

County seeks Tocks study

STROUDSBURG — A sociological survey by the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Committee will be recommended to TIRAC by the Monroe County Commissioners it was decided Monday.

Commissioner Nancy Shukaitis said she had been contacted in regard to whether such a survey had ever been made. Solicitor Elmer Christine said he thought it would be a "popular and useful" thing to do to bring such a survey to the attention of TIRAC.

In other business, the commissioners approved the investment of $49,343 of Liquid

Fuel Tax Funds in 90 day Treasury bonds. According to County Treasurer Thomas R. Joyce, this will return about $50,000 to the county.

Joyce said the money was part of a $80,096. Liquid Fuel allocation received last week from the state.

The allocation, based on the total road mileage in the county, is one of two which will be received from the state. Joyce said the money will not be necessary immediately, and recommended the purchase of the bonds.

In regard to request from Price Township secretary, treasurer Stanley Newman, to raise the township's Liquid Fuel allotment the commissioners decided to leave Price's allotment at $3,000, at which it was set last week.

Newman again said that anything less than $4,000 was a "hardship" and that the township probably would be unable to go through with its road program.

Martin said that since Price received $2,000 over their original $2,000 allotment last year, he thought the commissioners were "justified and more than generous" in this year's allotment.

Hintze said that 57 letters had been sent to relatives of residents at Pleasant Valley

Manor in regard to a revaluation of their legal responsibilities.

Of these, he said 24 people still have not answered, even after three letters have been sent by Lawrence Butz, administrator of the Manor.

Hintze noted that it is "absolutely necessary that these people reply." He said the names of those not replying were in the hands of the county solicitor.

Action on the report of the Tax Study committee was tabled until next Monday, when Mrs. Shukaitis requested another week to "be sure I know all the facts." Martin agreed that he also would like to have another week to decide.

The committee had recommended a restructuring of the county's tax system either by an outside firm at an estimated cost of $320,000 or locally, at an estimated cost of $50,000. Their final recommendation, based on cost, was to have the job done locally.

Hintze praised the Pocono Music Festival in Mountaintop which he said he attended Saturday. He introduced a resolution, passed by the commissioners, in which the commissioners "commend and congratulate the board, faculty, and staff" of the festival.

Hintze said to him, the festival was "one of the very great cultural things for this area."

Marion Natishyn, Democratic committeewoman in Mount Pocono, submitted her resignation to the commissioners for reasons of health. She said it had been her honor to serve Monroe County.

Hintze also said he had attended the Saturday executive meeting of TIRAC and found it to be a "good meeting." Mrs. Shukaitis, however, expressed disappointment at the small turnout for the general meeting later in the afternoon.

The commissioners will not meet on Thursday, July 4.

Mt. Pocono may hike public nuisance fine

MOUNT POCONO — Revision of the public nuisance ordinance and possible changes in the ordinance prohibiting soliciting were discussed at the Mount Pocono Borough Council on Monday night.

Mayor Gerald Possinger said that the fine in the public nuisance ordinance should be increased. He suggested a minimum fine of $25 to a maximum $100.

Referring primarily to public intoxication cases Mayor Possinger said that the current limited $10 fine is not sufficient.

He explained that borough police have to drive twice to the county jail for each public intoxicant. One trip is for the initial confinement and the second is to return the person for appearance before a Justice of the Peace.

The mayor also hoped that a fine with a $100 maximum would deter repeated violations by the same person. Solicitor Jerome Cheslock was authorized to study revision of the ordinance.

Mayor Possinger was also concerned over solicitations in the borough. He cited a recent flim-flam case as an example of the need to provide further protection for residents.

He explained that a man who identified himself as an electrical inspector told a resident he would need new electrical wiring throughout his home. The cost was $2,500.

The resident was about to withdraw the money from the bank when he became suspicious.

Councilmen, after a lengthy discussion, realized that a change in the ordinance prohibiting solicitations would not solve the problem. They indicated that borough residents should be advised to contact the police department when approached by any person soliciting.

The current borough ordinance requires a permit for anyone soliciting.

Councilmen also authorized borrowing $1,500 from the East Stroudsburg National Bank in order to pay June bills and to meet the payroll. A total $1,000 was borrowed last month.

The borough as of June 30 had a $2,862 balance in the regular account with bills totaling $2,049, leaving a balance of $812. The borough has a balance of $4,045 in the state account. They received a total of $1,262 in new bills leaving them a $400 deficit for this month. This does not include an approximate $500 for the payroll.

Youth admits robbery was contrived

MILFORD — A 19-year-old airman stationed at Stewart Air Force Base in Newburg, N.Y., who reported being robbed at gun point last Friday night by two State Policemen admitted Monday that the entire story was a hoax. Capt. John I. Swan, commanding officer Troop R, Dunmore, said Monday night.

Richard Mizenko of Swoyersville, according to police, left the air force base Friday for a trip home. The airman stopped for gas and discovered that more than $100 was missing from his wallet.

As he traveled into Pennsylvania he contrived the story that he was held up by two State Police. He had seen a police car go by and as he neared Milford on Rt. 6 he saw a second car that was also green.

Mizenko drove down Twin Lakes Road and thought more about a story to tell police. He returned to the Milford barracks and told police a story of being robbed.

The admission of the hoax came after he was confronted with some information State Police obtained from their investigation.

Man committed

STROUDSBURG — Thomas D. Birmingham, 60, of 611 Vine St., Philadelphia, was committed to Monroe County Jail Monday charged with public intoxication.

Birmingham, a hotelman, was arrested by Stroudsburg Borough Police.

County may move handicapped center

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County School Board Monday reviewed possible sites for the county's handicapped children in the event it does not renew its lease with Jackson Township where the present Reeder's Day Care Center for the handicapped exists.

The board was recently informed by Russell Frable, president of the Jackson Township Supervisors that the day care's 10-month rental of $3,200 will be increased to $4,000.

The supervisors claim that the center needs a new boiler.

The board will investigate the possibility of renting the education building of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

The education building was spared by the 1967 fire which destroyed the church.

Three large classrooms and a smaller classroom are housed in the education building, according to the Rev. Samuel Huffard, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Huffard said he thought there would be no conflict with the present use of the education building and the possible leasing of the building to the school board for handicapped children.

The board approved a request from the Stroudsburg Area School Board to change its present educational set-up from a 6-6 status to a Middle School complex of 4-4-4 which would include grades Kindergarten through Four, fifth to eighth grade and nine through 12.

The board reviewed one-day special education program on new "in-service" methods and techniques for outside area teachers.

The program will be sponsored by Monroe County Superintendent of Schools, Walter Schering, and is entitled to a $1,200 Title Six grant (in-service training) under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The Wayne county school board has approved the

Driver unhurt in accident

STROUDSBURG — State Police from Stroudsburg investigated a one-car accident Sunday at 11:45 p.m. on a legislative route in Pocono Twp.

Raymond Ace Jr., 18, of Jeffrey St., East Stroudsburg, failed to round a curve in the highway. The car crossed the highway, ran off the road and crashed into a tree.

Ace was not injured.

Police estimate damage at $800.

Area students attain honors

EASTON — Two local students have been named to the dean's list for the second semester of the 1967-68 year at Lafayette College. They are:

LeRoy H. Setzer, East Stroudsburg, R. D. 2, and Douglas R. Marvin, Tannersville.

Milford stop signs approved

MILFORD — The Milford Borough Council approved an ordinance during its meeting Monday night which establishes the location for additional traffic signs of the "stop street" variety, which will be placed throughout the borough.

The borough dump again came in for discussion during the meeting.

It was noted that, as yet, no attendants had been procured to oversee dumping operations on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when the facility was to be open for the use of borough residents.

Four released from jail

STROUDSBURG — Four inmates at Monroe County Jail were released during the weekend after posting bail, paying fine and costs, or completing their sentences.

Released were Thomas F. Howard of Easton, paid $15 in fine and cost for a speeding violation; Frank O'Connor, Tanniment, paid fine and cost on drunk and disorderly conduct charge by East Stroudsburg Police; August Companion, Norristown, served his sentence on a public intoxication charge; and Isaac Culver of Philadelphia, posted $1,600 bail on two charges and paid $50 in fines and costs.

All charges against Culver stem from a hit-run accident Thursday in Minisink Hills and ended with a police chase, crash and swim in Delaware River in New Jersey.

President William C. Geiger, who conducted the meeting, turned two matters over to the law and legislative committee. The committee chairman, Norman Helms, was asked to contact the borough solicitor in regard to promoting action on the removal of a lamp post from borough property at the Arthur Marolei property on High St.

Action on this matter has been delayed since the lamp post was placed last winter without a permit being issued.

The other matter for the committee was to investigate a hospitalization plan for borough employees. This request was made after vice president Merritt Quinn suggested that the matter be given fullest consideration by the council.

It was reported that resurfacing and the installation of patch bases and a drain had been completed on Fifth St., at the site of the new post office. A protective guardrail will also be placed in the area.

The treasurer was authorized to borrow $2,000 for a 90-day period to cover current and anticipated expenses until tax monies start to be collected.

MOUNTAINHOME — Inside a white cottage named Debussey the sound of a cello droned up over the driveway to the swimming pool where boy and girl musicians were trying out water polo with a red ball.

In Onawa's main lodge the Curtis Spring Quartet practiced for Friday's concert while in a large blue and white striped tent the Mid-Atlantic Festival Chorus under the direction of Frederic R. Brown sang Bach's "In Their Arms I Rest Me."

The Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center is settling down for six weeks (June 28 to August 4) of harmony, point and counterpoint, theory, melody and diatonic scales.

MAMAC's bass fiddle instructor, John Schaefer, walked down across a green hill in the hot Sunday sun and joked with one of his base students, David Possner, of New York City.

Schaefer who's been playing bass with the New York Philharmonic since 1951 kidded Possner about making up his mind between medicine and music.

Possner joined another student musician for a game of ping pong while Schaefer talked about some of the past conductors of the Philharmonic, namely Dimitri Mitropoulos.

"He was a most kind and generous man and had the greatest memory for symphonic music."

Gap council increases wages for workers

DELAWARE WATER GAP — The Delaware Water Gap Borough Council Monday night voted to raise the minimum wage of borough employees from $1.40 to $1.50 per hour.

Council also voted to raise the wage of borough employee Tony Gallagher from $1.40 to $1.60 per hour.

In other action during the two-hour session council accepted but tabled action on a resignation submitted by Charles Lepper, borough police chief.

Lepper submitted his resignation to be effective June 29 after serving with the borough for little more than four months. The former chief cited long hours and lack of adequate help as principle reasons for leaving the borough.

At present William Snow will assume duties as the borough's senior officer until a successor for Lepper is chosen. Council committee chairmen will meet in special session Tuesday night to discuss applicants for the position.

According to council president Stephen Matos three persons have already applied for the job but would not make names public until a final decision is reached.

Council will table Lepper's resignation pending clarification of any outstanding bills in the department.

Borough Council received a petition signed by 12 Water Gap residents requesting their street, now owned by Harold Crossdale, be taken over by the borough and improved as a borough thoroughfare.

All signers of the petition are abutting property owners. Crossdale was included in the petition signers requesting a borough takeover.

Matos reported that a similar request from residents of Shepard Ave. and the Kimberly Road area would cost $3,685 according to estimates by engineer Edward Hess.

Estimate for the Parkland and Crossdale Street road is $3,282. Road council further explained that the borough budget would only allow for the improvement of one of the streets.

Council will study both requests before a decision is reached.

Road committee chairman John Wilson reported that a number of abandoned cars were causing unsightly conditions in the borough and that the "situation should be coped with."

Matos said that solicitor Harry Lee will be contacted to see if a borough ordinance exists to cope with the situation.

It was reported that the borough reservoir will be cleaned this Saturday. Last cleaning was about two months ago according to council.

It was approved to engage in an agreement with the H. A. Berkheimer Associates, Bangor, for the firm to collect the one per cent earned income tax recently adopted in the borough. As in other area municipalities council voted to enact the levy on an 80-20 per cent split with the school district with the larger portion going to the schools. Council has the option to change the percentage up to its entitled 50 per cent during preparations for next year's budget in December.

All the way around despite the faltering beginning and ragged timing the play itself is funny and a potential laugh getter as the cast pulls it into shape.

It was reported that an ordinance forbidding the riding of bicycles on borough sidewalks will be more strictly enforced in the future.

Council accepted the resignation of Mrs. Sally Rosenkrans from the borough Planning and Zoning Commission since Mrs. Rosenkrans moved from the borough recently.

A motion to pay bills was approved.

Council reported a balance of $2,604 in the general fund as of June 1 and $1,584 balance July 1.

The borough water department reported a balance of $2,861 as of July 1, while the Highway Aid Fund reported $2,998 as a balance for the beginning of this month.

In the borough general reserve was listed $8,713; the balance in water savings, $12,857, and the balance listed in the police pension fund, $2,029.

Greene Township taxpayers form

PROMISED LAND — A "watchdog committee," the Greene Township Landowners and Taxpayers Association, was organized Monday night with some 35 signers during a meeting called for the purpose of forming a committee to meet with the board of supervisors and the planning commission to discuss revision of a proposed subdivision ordinance.

Designed to "find out what is going on" through representation and meetings of the supervisors, planners, and other townships organizations the association was termed "really necessary in order to put brakes on the governing bodies."

"They may have the best intention but the ordinance, for instance, is just not for this area. We are unique in that half our property owners are not residents of the area. We will just have to police the meetings to find out what is being done by our officials," said Hugh Colan of Roemerville, who had been elected chairman of the committee at the second of two planning-supervisor-township residents sessions on the proposed ordinance.

Harold Clark was named president of the taxpayers association; Colan was chosen secretary and Paul Evans treasurer.

The committee that will meet with Supervisors Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Newfoundland Elementary Center included the following: Colan; Clark; Russen Van Buskirk Jr.; Robert Ober; John W. Dutton; Calvin Rose; Felix Olsson; Robert Madsen; and Thomas Ferguson.

Named as alternates were Frank Burke, George Brown and Paul Evans.

After election of officers, the group discussed briefly the changes in the proposed ordinance that they felt needed revision or deletion. Among these were width of roads, the question of land set aside for recreation by a developer, and other similar points they thought concerned a "city area" and not Greene Township.

"Let's keep the prettiest resort area in the country," said Clark. "Let's keep it in private developments."

It was also suggested that right of way as requested by the townships might be set aside for future completion not finished immediately as part of the original work in the development.

The committee will take suggestions to the session Wednesday night at the school. The association will meet later to set dues, requirements, aims, and projects, as well as to set up a schedule of residents who will attend the public meetings of the supervisors and planners in order to keep the others informed.

Shot rips into church

STROUDSBURG — State Police, investigating a shooting late Sunday night, discovered a one-ounce "pumpkin ball" from a 12 gauge shot gun lying on a shelf in the library of Jehovah Witness Kingdom Hall, just outside East Stroudsburg Borough limits.

Police said the projectile was fired from outside the building, passed through the wall and landed on a book shelf in the library.

Cars crash near Milford

HAWLEY — State Police at Milford investigated a two-car accident Monday at 10:10 a.m. on Rt. 6, about eight miles from Hawley.

According to police, Shirley Jones of Lloydsville, R. D. 1, was traveling west and a car driven by Anthony Dean Jr. of Honesdale was traveling east and the two vehicles side-swiped.

Playground will be named

E. S. board favors borough employees

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Recreation Board met Monday night at the playground and took full advantage of the occasional breeze in the park.

The board reaffirmed its stand on employment. All employees at the playground will be from East Stroudsburg, except when there are no applicants or the applicants do not meet requirements. Then the board will look outside the borough for employees.

In other action the board told council members present at the meeting that two shuffleboards, which had been included in the budget, have not been started.

Councilman Jack Wallie told the board he did not know why they had not been started.

"I know the timing is poor but they will be started," Wallie said.

James Devaney, board president, appointed a committee to work with the Garden Club in a project to acquire a name for the present playground.

The Garden Club proposed, by letter, that the club thought it would be proper to have a name for the playground because the borough is reaching a point where it will have another park or playground in the near future.

Mayor Thomas Kistler told the meeting that council, at its informal meeting, approved the plan.

Appointed to work with the Garden Club were Herbert Yutz, Horace Walters and Mrs. Ann Travis.

The meeting concluded following preparations for the annual children's picnic at the playground.

The date was set for Aug. 3 with free swimming all day, and refreshments for the children.

The board is making plans to accommodate 1,500 children. The next meeting will be held July 29 at the playground.

Short trading week

Market drifts into loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices drifted slightly lower Monday in the slowest trading in more than a month on the New York Stock Exchange. Most declines were in fractions.

The list made some progress early in the session but profit taking built up quickly and the advance was virtually erased by noon. Modest selling predominated afternoon trading.

Brokers said the market is in a consolidating phase following the long April-May advance. During this phase, they investors seem to ignore normally constructive news to await something significant before making decisive commitments.

A rise in consumer prices and a gain in construction awards in June were overlooked.

The United Press International stock market indicator lost 0.14 per cent to 125.64, while the New York Stock Exchange common stock index mirrored a decline of 11 cents in the average share price.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined 1.45 to 896.35 but the rail component closed unchanged.

Of the 1,525 issues traded, 740 declined, 573 advanced and 212 closed unchanged. There were 77 issues at new 1968 highs and 16 at new lows.

Volume totaled 11,280,000 shares compared with the 12,040,000 shares traded Friday.

Commercial Credit was the most actively traded issue, losing 1/4 to 57 1/2 on 268,200 volume. It has agreed to merge into Control Data. Control Data lost 1/4 to 47 1/2.

Lowe's Theatres, whose tender offer for the shares of Commercial Credit expired June 28 and will not be extended, rose 1/4 to 82 1/2. The company said it received more than four million shares of Commercial but did not reveal whether it would sell the stock back to Commercial Credit.

Occidental Petroleum, second most active, lost 1 1/2 to 49 1/2 on 173,000 shares and its proposed merger partner, Hooker Chemical, finished third, falling 3/4 to 50 1/2 on volume of 135,500 shares.

Great American Holding was active, gaining 2 1/2 to 59 1/2. National General, which bought 400,000 shares of Great American several weeks ago, and is seeking control of the company closed unchanged at 52.

American Broadcasting was a feature, soaring 10 1/2 to 69 1/2 after remaining closed to trading throughout the morning and most of the afternoon. Hughes Tool Co., which is owned by millionaire Howard Hughes said it is seeking to purchase two million shares of ABC common stock at $74.25. Steels tended slightly lower. Chrysler lost 1 to 62 in the easier markets. Chemicals were mixed. Clark starred for the oils, gaining 3 1/2 to 64 1/2. Superpet Oil also made headway but Texaco lost fractionally.

Burroughs paced the losers in the electronics, falling 6 1/2 to 194 1/2. Fairchild, Camera fell 4 1/2 to 55 1/2 and Texas Instruments lost 3 1/2 to 105 1/2. IBM, Honeywell and Collins Radio also ended in the minus column.

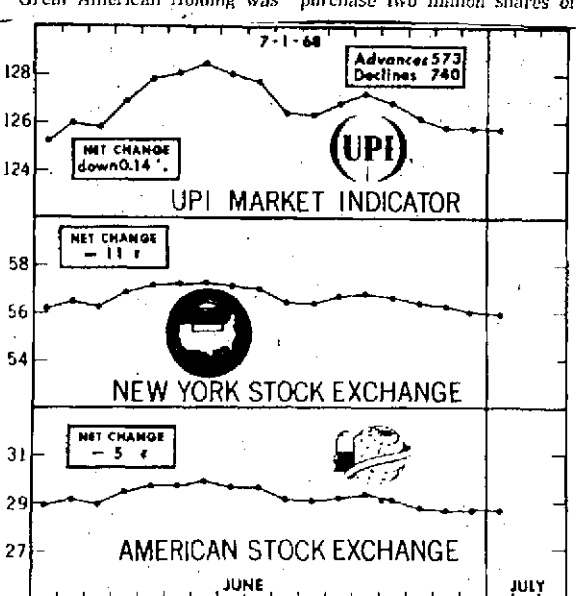

Norfolk & Western slid 2 1/2 to 98 1/2 in the mixed rails. Airlines were mostly lower. Braniff fell 1 1/2 to 22 1/2 but Eastern, trading ex-dividend, and Northwest countered, gaining more than 1 apiece.

Aircrafts were firm. American Research starred for the miscellaneous glamor issues advancing 6 1/2 to 177. Xerox, which completed its acquisition of Ginn & Co., lost 3 1/2 to 289 1/2.

American Telephone rose 1/2 to 51 1/2 in active trading. Berman Leasing was up 3 1/2 to 59 1/2. Container Corp gained 3 to 37 on news of merger discussions with Montgomery Ward. Montgomery Ward was up 1/2 to 32 1/2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange closed lower in moderate trading. Of the 497 issues crossing the tape, 494 declined, 338 advanced and 165 closed unchanged. The Amex index lost 5 cents to 328.62. Volume declined to 4,146,993 shares from the 5,040,225 volume of Friday.

Everybody's Business

Another rail merger signed

ROANOKE, VA. — The merger of the Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio railways took another step forward Monday when the Delaware and Hudson Railway joined the N&W system.

The D&H Railway, successor to the D&H Railroad, is being included in the Roanoke, Va., based N&W as a result of a 1967 Interstate Commerce Commission order which directed the N&W to offer inclusion to the D&H and two other eastern roads.

One of these roads, the Erie Lackawanna, joined the system April 1 as a wholly owned subsidiary of Dereco, Inc., and N&W subsidiary. Management of the third road, the Boston and Maine, has recommended that its stockholders reject the inclusion terms prescribed by the ICC.

Herman H. Pevler, president of the N&W, called the inclusion of the D&H "another major advance in the N&W-C&O plan to form a second strong rail system in the East."

Pevler said John P. Fishwick, N&W senior vice president and president of Dereco, will be president of the D&H.

Mrs. Greinert of the Greinert Hearing Aid Center, 539 Scott St., Stroudsburg is shown testing the hearing of a client.

MRS. GREINERT TO OPEN HEARING AID CENTER IN STROUDSBURG

Mrs. Marguerite Greinert, a highly trained specialist in speech therapy, lip reading and auditory training has been appointed an authorized dealer for the Widex Hearing Co.

The new Widex center in Stroudsburg will specialize in the evaluation and fitting of hearing aids to suit the individual needs, audiometric testing and counseling and advice in nonmedical problems confronting the hearing handicapped.

The Widex line is well known throughout the United States and Europe for highest standards of design, materials, and quality of workmanship. These instruments are precision built and made to fit all types of hearing loss from mild to severe nerve deafness.

Four fully guaranteed styles are available: those worn within the ear, behind the ear, in the eyeglasses and the conventional body-type aid.

To assure children and adults of a quick, satisfactory adjustment to the hearing aid, Mrs. Greinert offers a short course in auditory training with each sale. The center will provide all services, accessories and repairs for every make of hearing aid. Mrs. Greinert brings to the center 30 years of experience in aiding the hearing handicapped. She is a graduate of Columbia University, Teachers' College, speech therapist, and Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist.

Along with editing several magazines devoted to the hard of hearing, Mrs. Greinert has written two books on lip reading and speech. She also taught pre-school deaf children.

The Greinert Hearing Aid Center endeavors to give not just hearing, but hearing with understanding. For those unable to go to the center, appointments may be made in your home by calling 421-4281.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Jack Parr will speak for Sen. Jacob Javits' reelection campaign. Madrid gossip: the Angie Dukes weren't the most popular diplomats by a few light years. . . . Angie ordered embassy employees with signs to "Buy American" and conserve dollars—when of course half the embassy employees were Spanish.

The "Chris & Peter Allen" pebble-team (that's crushed-rock) aren't even brothers. . . . Martin and Lewis' former manager Abby Greshler (currently Vince Edwards' peddler) signed on as booker of German-citizen and wild French rioter "Danny the Red" Cola-Bendit for a United States lecture tour. . . . This witless joker generates violence which is hardly what we need.

British Sammy Davis television special was dropped when London musicians stopped his supporting players because they're Americans. . . . Would you believe: Roddy McDowell flattened Dean Martin in their "Five Card Stud" western? We thought movies were getting realistic again.

The new plenty-headroom Austin cabs (from London) are due here next month which could revolutionize the whole hack industry; they're comfortable and make sense. . . . Have a disillusionment: Charles and Joy Adamson (who loved their lion-pets in "Born Free") not only separated but neither wants custody of the lions! . . . That's why Jack Paar's trying to save the beasties—Jack will put up $10,000 of his own TV-gotten cash.

Higher new-car prices will be blamed on newly required safety features. . . . Changing Broadway: 15 new skyscrapers are rising or announced and little space is available for more. . . . Joseph P. Kennedy anticipated the real estate boom decades ago—bought huge sections of 6th & Lexington.

Judy Garland turned away $75,000 down payment for her certainly spectacular memoirs; wants $150,000. . . . Judy sure showed up for her life, if not lately. . . . Ingrid Bergman's

Two doctors re-certified to academy

STROUDSBURG — Two local physicians have been re-elected to three-year terms as members of the American Academy of General Practice. They are:

Dr. Elmo J. Lilli, M.D., and Dr. Joseph P. Viglione, M.D., both of Stroudsburg.

The certificate declares satisfactory completion of 150 hours of post graduate study during the past three years; in a continued effort to keep abreast of the latest developments in diagnostic procedures and treatments, so that a high standard of total medical care can be rendered to the patient.

State agency grants ESSC total $62,250

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency has awarded $62,250 in scholarship grants to 118 students who will be attending East Stroudsburg State College in the fall.

A total of 187 students applied for aid but 118 were judged by the agency as meeting established qualifications.

According to Earl J. Shutter, Director of Student Personnel at ESSC, a total of $102,700 in financial aid has been awarded to date to students attending in the fall.

As of June 15, the National Defense Education Act has awarded 72 students a total of $38,575. Under the Economic Opportunity Grants 12 students will receive $3,875.

Hamblin named to dean's list

SWIFTWATER — John C. Hamblin of Swiftwater was among the 169 students at Bloomsburg State College named to the dean's list for the second semester of the 1967-68 college year.

Hamblin is a junior in secondary education receiving the honors by earning an average of 3.5 during the past semester.

husband Lars Schmidt is in so many deals he had to sell off his Paris Theatre Montparnasse; paid $170,000, wants $350,000. . . . Jewish version of the Broadway longrun hit will be called "There's a Girl in My Borscht".

Warren Beatty and George Hamilton pitched hard for the Rubirosa role in "The Adventurers" film but it went to Burt Reynolds (now all together: Who! . . . Buddy Greco thinks it's important—he's now in the Rat Pack. . . . Gary Grant's offered all sorts of movies but the role, he'd like next is Don Quixote in "Man of La Mancha". . . . Howard Hughes sent words to the Nevada governor; he has no intention of acquiring anything more in Vegas. . . . The Robert Cummings are close to a reconciliation.

Variety's TV man Jack Pitman and wife were told the X-rays mean August twins. . . . Just finished at the Copa, Tony Bennett signed for two more fall weeks at the Waldorf; the Copa will take Tony back anytime, even right after the Waldorf. . . . Official Monmouth Race Track starter is named Edward Blind, Blind.

Magda (the niece) Gabor leased her Southampton, L.I. estate for two years to a realtyco for $50,000; Magda can use it — her late husband left millions but the will's contested. . . . Thief in Cognac, France, is called "The Angel's Kiss" — that's evaporation, and the big old winemakers blame its buss for the equivalent of 25,000 bottles a day loss.

The Steve McQueens checked into the Sherry-Netherland June 20 (Steve likes to drop cherry-bombs out New York hotel windows like the rest of the Rat Pack; the St. Moritz quietly urged him to take his fire-crackers elsewhere when house dicks traced that little-boy hobby a season or so back.

Mission impossible? Swedish brewery's trying a plastic bottle — that disintegrates itself. . . . Millionaire fashion magnate Andrew Arkin has his own foreign-aid program — his "Fashion Corps" goes worldwide to recruit trainees for his $20,000,000 New York style-business (Japan, South Africa, Canada, Australia, Hong Kong and Britain already are harkin' to Arkin's most intelligent project). . . . Gig Young dined with his steady Skye Aubrey of "Cactus Flower" at Maud Chez Elle; Gig's been in bed with (watch it!) a sacroiliac wrench but tours shortly in "On a Clear Day."

Resort in Roumania called "Mama" advertises, "Please don't confuse us with Miami." . . . Miss Hollister Houghton weds the horsey set's William Haggard 3rd in October; her pop's president of the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art. . . . Ed McMahon's TV production firm's peddling two half-hour shows "Mini-specials" to the networks.

Holiday drivers warned

STROUDSBURG — The National Safety Council has predicted between 769 and 800 deaths during the long July 4 weekend.

The long weekend, according to NSC, starts at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends midnight Sunday.

If you have been driving for a long distance stop at a roadside rest, cool off, allow car to cool down, and then resume travel.
